Humphrey Brings Johnson Greeting To Gen. De Gaulle

PARIS (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Friday a main reason for his quick trip to France with America's newest spacemen is to pay respects to Charles de Gaulle, "a great leader."

Humphrey made the statement at a news conference at the International Air and Space Show shortly after arriving at Le Bourget Airfield with astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II, the Gemini space twins who recently completed a four day orbital flight.

Humphrey will meet De Gaulle Sunday afternoon. The astronauts said they felt they could have gone on indefinitely on their flight and would like to go together to the moon.

Honored To Visit

"We are very honored to have a chance to visit Gen. de Gaulle," Humphrey said. "I will personally bring the greetings of President Johnson to the general when I see him. One of the main reasons for our visit was to come here to pay respects to a great nation, a great people, and a great leader."

Humphrey and the astronauts were accompanied at the news conference by Dr. James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Charles Mathews, manager of the Gemini program and Julian Scheer, public relations officer for NASA.

Asked how long the party plans to stay in France, Humphrey said the exact program was not certain. He said that he and the astronauts intend to visit the air show today to talk to as many people as possible, and to watch the giant fly-past of participating planes climaxing the show.

The astronauts, smiling broadly, responded to a barrage of questions from French correspondents and American newsmen.

When he was introduced, White tried a little French and said, "Bonjour, mes amis" — Good day, my friends.

The essay into French brought laughter and warm applause from the correspondents. "I'm glad to be back in France," White said. "I'd just like to say that when you look down from 100 miles up you get the feeling that borders are not important, but that our attempts to get together with each other are."

McDivitt explained that he and White brought their wives with them to Paris.

"I'm very happy that my wife can participate with me in this trip," McDivitt said. "I obviously could not take her on the space trip so I am doubly glad to be able to have her make this trip with me."

Both astronauts said they felt they could have gone on indefinitely.

"We were feeling a little sleepy toward the end," McDivitt said. "But that was just because we had not had much sleep in the preceding few hours. We both felt we could have gone on indefinitely and there was absolutely no problem as far as the four-day length of the flight was concerned."

Asked if they would like to make future space flights together, the astronauts put their arms around each other's shoulder and White said:

"The answer is a very definite 'yes.' Col. McDivitt and I flew this flight together and we'd like to go on every other one in the future together, including a flight to the moon."

The arrival of Humphrey and the two astronauts added considerable luster to America's representation at the air show, which has so far been dominated by the Soviet Union.

Russia's first man in space, Yuri Gagarin, has made several public appearances. But Russians also captured major attention with the introduction of a huge, 260-ton transport plane which they claim is capable of carrying up to 720 passengers.

Mighty Titan Soars Aloft To Success

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A mighty Titan 3C, the most powerful rocket ever fired, scored a thundering success on its maiden test flight Friday and signaled the Air Force to proceed with plans to establish a military beach head in space.

In the most spectacular launching ever witnessed at this missile wonderland, the huge triple-barrel rocket developed total thrust of more than three million pounds, spewed a tail of flame more than 600 feet long and flung into orbit a 21,000-pound dummy satellite — the heaviest payload ever launched.

Space Dominance

This orbiting chunk of lead is the forerunner of manned and unmanned military machines which will patrol and perhaps dominate space, preventing other nations from using it for warlike purposes.

Maj. Gen. Ben I. Funk, commander of the Air Force Space Systems Division, said the flight represented "a great day for the nation, the Defense Department and the Air Force."

"The success with a combination of solid and liquid-fuel rockets," he said, "demonstrates the flexibility of the booster for military as well as other payloads. I feel it will be the catalyst which will kick off many programs which the Air Force has been working on and you have been reading about. The manned orbiting laboratory should get the green light in short order."

Within a few days, the Defense Department is expected to give the Air Force the go-ahead to develop the manned laboratory, which has been under study for several months.

The lab, which will be the size of a house trailer, will keep two or more astronauts in orbit for a month or more to determine what military missions man can effectively perform in space. Officials hope to launch the first vehicle by 1968.

Within three years, Titan 3C rockets are expected to establish these unmanned space systems: a network of 24 communications satellites for relaying military messages around the world; reconnaissance, navigation and satellite intercepter payloads.

With its weight-lifting capability, Titan 3C also will be used for scientific payloads. One project under consideration is to send a package of nine payloads to the moon with a single rocket to determine strength of the lunar surface.

All these plans received tremendous impetus at 9 a. m. Friday when the first of the Titan 3C ignited with a great roar and rush of flames after a perfect countdown. The shot was televised.

Plan Reunion

West Monroe High School's Class of 1955 will be holding its first reunion in the fall and planners of the event are looking for information on the whereabouts of class members.

Anyone with any knowledge of the Class of 1955 is urged to contact Miss Faye Parker, 323-6187.

A planning meeting has been set for 7:15 p. m., Monday, June 28, at 109 Oak Drive, West Monroe.

Weekend Fun

Ouachita Parish school officials have diverse activities planned for the weekend.

For Supt. Milton C. Hall and Elementary Supervisor J. M. Waldrop, it'll be "pole-bending" (fishing) in Waldrop's back yard, which happens to be on beam-brimming Bayou DeSiard.

Meanwhile, Business Manager Jack Young will be in Houston, Tex., looking over the fabulous AstroDome and watching the Astros.

Bullets Thwart Escape Attempt

SCHIRNDING, Germany (AP) — Several Czechoslovakians attempting to smash through a border barrier into West Germany with a heavy crane were stopped by Czech border guard bullets, police reported Friday.

Bavarian border police said the crane was forced to a halt only a few yards away from the border line. They reported at least one Czechoslovak was shot to death.

Colorado's Governor Sets Flood Loss At $102 Million

At Least 10 Persons Taken In Rampage

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado suffered at least $102 million property damage in four days of floods which took 10 lives — possibly more Gov. John A. Love estimated Friday night.

The governor used the figure in appealing to President Johnson for $31 million in federal funds. He asked that 27 of the state's 63 counties be declared disaster areas.

Love said $42 million of the damage was to public property and $10 million to highways.

The appeal came as cloud-burst-born floodwaters swept the lower Arkansas River Valley in southeast Colorado and the rich South Platte Valley 200 miles to the north. The floods moved toward Kansas and Nebraska.

Major Danger Spot

Major danger spots were reported at Brush and Sterling in the northeast and La Junta, Las Animas, Lamar and Holly in the southeast.

There was flooding too, at Greeley in the north.

Meanwhile, a new wave of water was reported by Richard T. Eckles, state natural resources coordinator, to be racing across Pueblo in the Fountain River and dumping into the Arkansas River there.

Eckles said, however, that information reaching him was that the flows were being handled adequately without flooding.

The thunderstorms which triggered the storms tapered off in Colorado, at least for the time being.

Counties for which disaster status was asked by Love were Adams, Arapahoe, Baca, Bent, Cheyenne, Crowley, Denver, Douglas, Elbert, El Paso, Fremont, Kiowa, Kit Carson, Larimer, Las Animas, Lincoln, Logan, Morgan, Otero, Phillips, Prowers, Pueblo, Sedgewick, Teller, Washington, Weld and Yuma.

State officials said they were unable to substantiate a radio broadcast here early in the day that two children were swept away from a man near Two Buttes in southeastern Colorado.

They doubted a report that Two Buttes Reservoir, north of the Arkansas, was crumbling and said it probably was confused with loss of Clay Creek Dam, a small recreational structure, a few miles farther south.

Residents were evacuated in several communities. Six of the known deaths were in Colorado, two in Montana, two in New Mexico and three in Wyoming.

One of the Colorado dead reported was Pearl Gray, 34, who was reported swept away from her family near Woodrow, in the east-central part of the state.

Considering the scope of the disaster, injuries were comparatively few.

Numerous rescues, some by military helicopter, took place. Several small Colorado communities were evacuated, chiefly in the southeast along the Arkansas River.

Flood waters from the stream moved into western Kansas causing evacuation of several hundred persons at Syracuse and other cities downstream.

In northeast Colorado, the town of Wiggins was evacuated. Fort Morgan, Brush and Sterling, agricultural and oil cities, braced for the crest and set up emergency shelters.

Normal communications were smashed. Short-wave radio provided most of the contact.

Two bridges on Interstate Highway 80 some 13 miles west of Fort Morgan were washed out and the Burlington Railroad lost a bridge and some 300 feet of track in the same area.

Officials advised Denver residents not to attempt to reach the stricken area.

Several dams — all comparatively small — went out under the tremendous pressure. Three hundred men from the Colorado National Guard, relieved of flood duty in Denver, were held in readiness at Denver's Lowry Air Force Base to move into the northeast Colorado area.

Along the flood path of the Platte, when it moves from Colorado into Nebraska will be the town of Big Springs, scene of a bank robbery two weeks ago in which three persons were shot to death.

The Arkansas River was reported three miles wide at Lakewood, Kan., with the crest still far upstream. Several blocks of the community were emptied of residents by authorities.

Known Colorado deaths included a 13-year-old girl drowned near Loveland in the northern part of the state, a Pueblo man drowned near Larkspur, a Boulder man killed in the crash of a light plane and two men — one in Aurora and one in Denver — who died of heart attacks induced by storm-caused exertions.

New Mexico's casualties were two persons killed in a traffic accident a few miles east of Raton on Thursday.

PAR Director Warns Against Tax-Free Plan

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The director of the Louisiana Public Affairs Research Council said Friday that the national economy will suffer because public bonds are used to give industries tax-free financing.

Edward J. Steimel of Baton Rouge, said in an interview that tax free financing of industry through public bonds gives businessmen "a free ride."

"Who is picking up the expense?" he asked. "In the long run, somebody has to pick it up, and in the final analysis, I think it will be the economy that will foot the bill."

He said this type of industrial financing is an attempt to "buy jobs by relieving industry of what is a legitimate expense — its fair share of taxes."

"All we have done is to start wholesale competition," Steimel said. "More than half the states now have laws which permit various governmental jurisdictions to build these industries with public bonds. What is the advantage if all these states have the same thing?"

Steimel was here to address the closing session of the Southern Conference of the Council of State Governments, with about 400 delegates attending from 15 states.

Red 'Copter Defies Allies In Germany

BERLIN (AP) — An armed East German helicopter flew over West Berlin Friday in defiance of the Western Allies.

Authoritative sources said the U.S. Army placed machine guns on its helicopters as counter-move.

A U.S. Army spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny that machine guns were mounted on the American helicopters.

Flies Over Barracks

The East German helicopter, bearing the same number as one spotted throughout the week, was armed with a 12.7mm machine gun. It flew over the U.S. Army quarter-master compound and near the sprawling McNair barracks. The latter house the U.S. Army Combat Infantry Brigade.

The helicopter, flying at about 1,000 feet, changed course and whirled back into East Germany after a U.S. Army helicopter was rushed to the scene.

The intrusion was the most serious challenge of Western rights on air space over Berlin since the East Germans began the flights last week. Until now the East Germans had restricted them to flying along the wall and the borders around the city.

The two Army installations are located about 500 yards from the border on the southern outskirts of the American sector.

Another East German helicopter, of a smaller type, also flew over Berlin but it was not known whether this one was also armed.

U.S. officials said they viewed the flights, even when they do not take place over West Berlin, as extremely serious violations of postwar four-power agreements.

These agreements clearly state that only planes of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union have a right to fly within the Berlin control zone, which extends 20 miles in radius from the city's center.

Planes belonging to the four powers file flight plans with the Berlin Air Safety Center, which still is under four-power operation.

All East German flights were protested as violations to the Soviet controller at the center. Informed sources said the East Germans, or the Russians acting for them, never attempted to file any flight plans for the helicopter flights.

Pentagon Says B52 Raids Show Rain Not Safe Cover

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sources said, it was virtually impossible before this raid for government troops to penetrate the area about 25 miles north of Saigon.

This area is described as being between what are called war zones C and D, long-time strongholds of the Communist insurgents.

Sixty-seven minutes after the B52 bombing, the Pentagon sources said, 150 South Vietnamese troops entered the blasted area. Contact with the enemy was described as light, although fairly continuous.

Among other things, 2,500 pounds of rice were destroyed and many documents taken.

One team of Vietnamese soldiers found several houses with small tunnels nearby and blew them up, it was said.

A second team found an installation for about 450 men, with what was described as elaborate tunnels and communication equipment.

The Vietnamese used grenades and other explosives to destroy these facilities and B57 light bombers were called in to pour more explosives on the Viet Cong base.

A third team of 50 government troops reported several company-size areas surrounded by automatic weapons positions and these, too, were destroyed.

The sources said the reason B52s were used was that they could saturate the area with a heavy carpet of bombs in a short period of time.

The B52s carried as much as 38,000 pounds of bombs each in 750-pound and 1,000-pound versions.

The heavy jungle cover prevented pinpointing specific targets beneath it, the sources said, and thus the only way the area could be clobbered was with a carpet of bombs wreaking widespread destruction.

The sources also stressed what they called the psychological effects of the bombing which it is hoped will show the Viet

The sources said that a major Viet Cong headquarters was "overrun and destroyed."

A large communications center was ruined, the sources said, and 20 to 30 buildings used for barracks, training, storage and feeding were destroyed.

The sources made it plain that a major objective of the attack was to counter a new Viet Cong tactic.

Increasingly of late, the sources said, the Communist have launched surprise attacks on towns and have mounted big scale ambushes of South Vietnamese troops.

Substantial numbers of South Vietnamese soldiers have been tied down by the threat of attack from this concentration of perhaps 2,000 Communists.

Because of the heavy jungle, at five to 15 miles per hour,

Ky Becomes Viet Premier

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, commander of South Viet Nam's air force, today accepted the job of premier.

Ky, 34, said: "I accept the job and will try and do my best to serve the people and the nation."

He called it "a great honor."

Ky is the youngest premier in the history of the Vietnamese republic. A flamboyant, moustachioed airman, Ky has personally led his planes on air strikes against the Communists.

Reds Rebuff Peace, Rusk Tells Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The S. McNamara also reported to the Cabinet, but Rusk did the talking afterward.

Rusk, asked about use of B52 Strategic Air Command bombers in a strike at a reported Communist concentration in South Viet Nam on Thursday, said, "I would think it was worthwhile myself."

He said nuclear-capable bombers had been used to drop conventional explosives during the Korean War and their use now shouldn't make too much difference in world opinion.

He said results of the strike are still being examined and he wouldn't comment on whether B52s such as hit the Communists in South Viet Nam might be used in bombing North Viet Nam, hit so far only by smaller U.S. and Vietnamese aircraft.

Rusk said he reviewed the many efforts the United States has made during the last 4½ years to obtain a peaceful settlement in Southeast Asia, starting with the 1961 meeting between the late President John F. Kennedy and former Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in Vienna.

Rusk presented his report during a Cabinet session with President Johnson lasting a little more than an hour, and then discussed it with newsmen. Secretary of Defense Robert

Four Sentenced To State Prison Terms By Judge

Four persons were sentenced to terms in the state prison at Angola Friday in Fourth District Court with Judge Mack E. Barham presiding.

Dwayne Nugent of Ferriday was sentenced to six years for theft of $290.56; and Shirley Nugent, also of Ferriday, three years for the same offense.

Milton Cupit of Monroe was sentenced to five years for armed robbery of Huey Smith of Monroe.

Given a five year suspended sentence for carnal knowledge of a juvenile was William Darwin Jones, Mangham. Jones was placed on probation.

Sam J. Ruffino, 711 S. 8th St., Monroe, charged with theft of $4,343.89 and found guilty of unauthorized use of movables, was sentenced to six months in the parish jail, suspended, and placed on three years probation on the condition that the money be repaid.

In other action, Judge Barham fined three for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

They were Allen Jackson of 3612 Cooper St., Monroe, $300 and costs; Harold Jackson of Ruston, $400 and costs; and Alex Winstead of Bossier City, $300 and costs.

Opal Y. Sweeting of West Monroe was given six month terms on each of three counts of issuing worthless checks. The terms were not to run concurrently.

Olivia Knight of 2303 S. 6th St., Monroe, was fined $25 and costs for reckless operation of a vehicle.

Shirley Moffett, no address listed, was sentenced to one year in the parish jail for simple battery.

The break in the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. pipeline was followed by an explosion and fire in which 17 persons were killed and five homes destroyed.

The pipeline was built in 1944. A commission investigative team visited the scene and filed a preliminary report which the commission made available Friday after publication of some extracts.

"The staff report was not released because it was preliminary and unevaluated," the commission said in a statement in response to inquiries based on the published extracts.

Frank F. Watters, chief of the commission's Bureau of Natural Gas, who sent the preliminary report to the commission on April 26, summarized its findings this way:

"The staff is presently of the view that the recent Natchitoches pipeline failure was probably caused by an internal imperfection in the pipeline metal.

"The exact cause of the failure, whether due to a defect in manufacture or solely from deterioration, will not be known until laboratory tests have been completed. These tests are now being made jointly by Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. and a consultant retained by Tennessee."

There is nothing unusual about an Army Captain with 18 years experience in the service and with a tour of duty in South Viet Nam, until you meet Captain Dudley B. Sanderson, Post Signal Officer at Camp Drum, Watertown, N. Y.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sanderson of Blazier Lane, West Monroe, and a brother of Mrs. Jack Saucier of South 8th St., Monroe.

Captain Sanderson has spent his 18 years of experience in three branches of the armed services. His career starts with enlistment as a recruit in the Marine Reserve, continues through a hitch as a Naval seaman, flight cadet and Marine aviator, then switches to tours as an Army flight trainee and Warrant Officer pilot. The most recent entry is his direct commission to Captain in the Signal Corps.

Sanderson's flight log shows over 4,000 hours of air time in rotary and fixed wing aircraft, better than seven years in various schools the services have, and a mileage record equal to several dozen trips around the world.

"I signed up as a Marine recruit in Monroe, La., but when my buddies came home with paratroop boots, I made up my mind I wanted to jump," Sanderson says.

It was just two years after the end of World War II, and the Army medics said temporary trouble in his ear would keep him from flying. "It broke my heart," he explains, but it didn't stop him for long. After a year at Louisiana State University, he enlisted in the Navy, completed boot training at San Diego, then entered the Naval Training Devices school at Memphis.

With the outbreak of the Korean conflict, Sanderson applied for flight school, was sent to Pensacola, and got his wings as a Marine Second Lieutenant. "I would have been a Navy Ensign," he recalls, "but wanted to avoid having to land on those tiny carriers." He grins when he says that since for the following six years he was assigned to almost nothing else.

After more than forty combat support missions over Korea in F9F and F2H jets, Sanderson alternated between service schools and the hot spots of the world — the Mediterranean off Suez and Lebanon, the Atlantic off the Congo, the Caribbean off Cuba and the Pacific off Chile.

With a hint of reduction of flying forces, Marine Capt. Sanderson decided, in 1961, to "take a look at the Army". He found he could keep flying by becoming an Army Warrant Officer and was soon at Ft. Rucker, Ala., being taught to fly an L-19, At Ft. Wolters, Texas he went through the helicopter flight school to finish his flight training as an Army aviator.

After flying assignments with units at Ft. Hood, Texas, he proceeded to Viet Nam and lived experiences that many of us read about. Some of his memories are of lifting out of muck five feet deep in a rice paddy while under heavy fire that killed his crew chief; observing the simplicity of the Vietnamese people, most of whom, he says, "are hard working people who just want to be left alone;" and hearing the humble thanks of an encircled Special Forces advisor team after bringing in fresh C-rations.

During this tour he flew an aircraft he terms "the most challenging plane I have ever handled," referring to the H-21 Shawnee. This is the same plane that he had to bring out of a rice paddy while under heavy enemy fire. The plane's low center of gravity makes it difficult to accomplish this with a heavy load.

Captain Sanderson makes the comment that "flying in Viet Nam during the wet season is difficult," because of low-hanging clouds over the mountains and the absence of radio signals to guide aircraft around mountains.

While in Viet Nam CWO Sanderson decided to apply for a direct commission in the Army. The rest of his associates there told him he would never make it. He had one answer for them, "nothing ventured nothing gained." As a result of his belief he is now a Captain in the U. S. Army.

You might see him at Wheeler-Sack AAF some day getting into an H-13 to make a flight over the ranges. This is the same model of copter he first learned to fly.

Besides still flying a plane occasionally, he is an avid ham radio operator and has a set installed in his car. You might catch him some day during a slack moment getting in touch with another ham radio operator. In addition to this he is an amateur photographer and has taken shots of the many places where he has been stationed. Aside from these activities he hunts with a bow and arrow and makes tape recordings for his family's enjoyment.

Capt. Sanderson said, "when my 20 years are over, I'll want to keep flying and still find time to enjoy my tape recorders, cameras, bow and arrow and amateur radio gear."

Capt. Sanderson said, "when my 20 years are over, I'll want to keep flying and still find time to enjoy my tape recorders, cameras, bow and arrow and amateur radio gear."

There is nothing unusual about an Army Captain with 18 years experience in the service and with a tour of duty in South Viet Nam, until you meet Captain Dudley B. Sanderson, Post Signal Officer at Camp Drum, Watertown, N. Y.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sanderson of Blazier Lane, West Monroe, and a brother of Mrs. Jack Saucier of South 8th St., Monroe.

Captain Sanderson has spent his 18 years of experience in three branches of the armed services. His career starts with enlistment as a recruit in the Marine Reserve, continues through a hitch as a Naval seaman, flight cadet and Marine aviator, then switches to tours as an Army flight trainee and Warrant Officer pilot. The most recent entry is his direct commission to Captain in the Signal Corps.

Sanderson's flight log shows over 4,000 hours of air time in rotary and fixed wing aircraft, better than seven years in various schools the services have, and a mileage record equal to several dozen trips around the world.

Berkeley President Blamed For Allowing Student Riots

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A legislative committee charged Friday that laxness by University of California President Clark Kerr "let a minority of communist leaders" take over recent student uprisings on the Berkeley campus.

Kerr said in San Francisco the report was loaded with inaccuracies.

In its 13th biennial report, the State Senate fact-finding committee on un-American activities said that what started out as a legitimate student protest turned into a Communist-inspired bid to wreck the university.

Kerr's "tolerance of radical student groups," the committee said, "let a minority of Communist leaders...bring this great education institution to its knees."

Senate President Pro Tem Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, committee chairman, submitted the lengthy document at 11 a.m.

It included sharp criticism of John Birch Society President Robert Welch and reported a "dangerous increase of anti-Semitism" within the society's membership.

Former Rep. John Roussell, California spokesman for the John Birch Society, said in San Marino, Calif.: "We have been concerned about the problem of anti-Semitism infiltrating our membership for quite some time. We have dealt very decisively with the problem."

The Berkeley campus uprising began in early fall when students began protesting the university's refusal to allow collection of funds on campus for off-campus political and civil rights activities. A student group formed to fight the decision and named itself the Free Speech Movement.

The conflict built in intensity until Dec. 2, when approximately 800 persons, mostly students, invaded the main administration building and refused to leave. Hundreds of policemen under orders from Gov. Edmund G. Brown swarmed into the building and arrested the rebels.

The committee said it was not implying Kerr had Communist sympathies. It pictured him as the man responsible for easing security regulations, thus allowing ex-Communists to get university jobs. Among them was one of his own secretaries, the report said.

It named Virginia Marie Taylor, described as Kerr's secretary, as "a member of the national Communist youth organization, then known as American Youth for Democracy," during her undergraduate days at the University of Washington.

The committee said Miss Taylor hid this information in signing a university security questionnaire.

Tracing Kerr's background as an aide in several federal agencies and as a labor mediator, the committee said: "We make no accusation that there was any guilt by association, but we do make clear that many of Kerr's intimate colleagues during these years...were participating in a wide variety of pro-Communist activities. Some of them came to work at the Berkeley campus after Kerr became its chancellor" in 1952.

One of the UC faculty members who aligned himself with the revolt, the committee said, was a Leon Wofsy. The report lists Wofsy's birth date as 1921, but said he was a key leader in organizing the Communist party in Chicago in 1919.

The report said of Wofsy that "no persons...played a more significant and successful role in organizing Communist youth throughout the country."

According to the report, Wofsy was hired at the San Diego campus of UC in 1961 after telling his interviewers he became disenchanted with communism in 1956. He transferred to the Berkeley campus in July 1964, "just in time for the commencement of the demonstrations."

The committee said that by the Dec. 2 sit-in FSM was taken over by an activist leadership that "was far superior to the organization of the Berkeley administration, that was floundering in a bureaucratic tangle."

The report termed Mario Savio, whose fiery oratory gained him nationwide publicity as the movement's spokesman, as a relatively minor figure who was under the "powerful influence" of fellow student Bettina Aptheker, described as having a background "that was virtually nothing else but Communist."

In turning briefly to the John Birch Society, the committee reiterated its earlier conclusion that the organization is not subversive.

But it reported that the society has "attracted a lunatic fringe that is now assuming serious proportions. We find very little anti-Negro sentiment among the members, but we do find a growing incidence of anti-Semitism, although the society as a whole is far from anti-Semitic."

OAS Asks Bickering Dominican Factions To Permit Free Elections

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Organization of American States asked the warring Dominican factions Friday to lay down their arms and allow OAS-supervised elections in six to nine months.

An interim government, indirectly subsidized by the United States, would be set up under OAS auspices.

U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, one of three OAS peacemakers, told newsmen he was "encouraged by the reception" of both sides to the proposal. Other sources said they expected formal replies from the rebels and the rival civilian-military junta in three or four days.

Under the proposed formula, the provisional government would turn over all its revenue to the OAS and the inter-American organization would handle all budget expenditures. However, since Dominican revenues are inadequate to cover deficits, the United States would pump at least $10 million a month into the country through the OAS machinery, sources said.

"The result would be decisive control of the Dominican economic system," an OAS official said. "Normally, the government is the nation's biggest employer and biggest spender."

The proposal for free elections came from an OAS conference in Washington dealing with the eight-week-old civil war. The OAS made an urgent appeal to the Dominican people to accept the plan to bring peace back to the Caribbean nation.

The OAS said the plan would allow "all leaders of democratic political parties abroad to return to the Dominican Republic under OAS safeguards in order that they might participate in the political life of the nation, including the election."

The rebels meanwhile released two U. S. 82nd Airborne Division men who were captured yesterday after they wandered by Jeep into the rebel sector. They are Pfc. Larry Leed, 18, of Conestoga, Pa., and Spec. 4 C. Donald Jones, 20, of Pomona, Calif.

Another American whom the rebels said they captured Thursday night was not released.

Col. Juan Lora Fernandez, rebel army chief of staff, turned over the prisoners to Lt. Edwin Campos, a Costa Rican member of the OAS peace force.

"We hope you'll do with our prisoners as we have done with yours," Lora said. The Costa Rican replied "This is a noble deed on your part that must be reciprocated."

Lora said the inter-American forces were holding 30 civilian rebel partisans who were arrested two days ago when they drove out of the rebel sector to obtain food.

Earlier Col. Hector Lachapelle of the rebel military command said seven of the civilian prisoners were agents of the Dominican armed forces backing the civilian-military junta.

He said they fired on Brazilian soldiers of the OAS force in order to provoke an incident between the rebels and the inter-American troops.

The two U. S. paratroopers played gin rummy in a room in rebel headquarters while awaiting release. Rebel presidential adviser Hector Aristy asked at one point if they had been freed.

Jones, patting his stomach, said: "I didn't eat. I feel full. I guess I am also a bit nervous."

Both Americans said they had been well treated by the rebels.

The OAS peace committee spent 20 minutes with the rebel president, Col. Francisco Caamano Dene, and his advisers to outline the new proposal for settling the government crisis. Afterward, Aristy addressed a crowd outside the headquarters from the shoulders of some rebel soldiers.

Hoisted aloft, he said: "Until now all we have is a proposal which we have having. They are negotiating with us because we have clearly stated we shall fight to the death. Have patience. We shall not take one step backward."

Caamano then stepped into the street and echoed Aristy's remarks.

The position from which Caamano has said his government will not retreat includes a call for the installation of a government under the 1963 constitution of former President Juan Bosch and a demand that all rebel fighters be incorporated into the regular armed forces.

The peace committee said in proposing the elections that six to nine months would be "the minimum time required to make the necessary arrangements."

FOUNDATIONS • SECOND FLOOR

If France owes the United States $6.5 billion (which it does, including accumulated interest), why is President Charles de Gaulle trying to put the "bee" on us for as much of our gold as he can get, apparently in the hope of driving this nation into bankruptcy? The simple truth is that the United States has not yet mustered up the nerve to rap de Gaulle on the knuckles and to tell him we won't give him any of our gold until he pays what he owes.

There is such a thing as being too politely diplomatic. De Gaulle has used "hard touch" diplomacy so much that we should take off the kid gloves and let him have it in the "kisser."

Senator J. William Fulbright, D., Ark., seems to have chosen the right side, for once, in our financial tete-a-tete or "tit-for-tat" dispute with France. He says it's time to start talking to France about the French World War I debt to the United States.

This $6.5 billion France owes us is a large part of the $37 billion in debts due from 91 nations. More than half of that sum is accounted for by inter-allied debts of West European nations to the United States which were incurred in World War I.

Not only did the United States let the West European nations have those huge billions in connection with the war, but we paid rent on European lands and buildings we were using during the time we had our armies over there to prevent Kaiser Wilhelm's armies from taking over Europe. One would think they might let us use their land free while we were protecting them but we never objected to paying and, at the same time, handed out huge sums in loans or gifts.

Apparently, the European nations — Uncle Sam being what he is — never expected to pay those debts, but we never cancelled and so they still stand. Britain owes us $9.3 billion but we are not sending a bill for it right now, since Britain is not trying to wreck us financially for the benefit of such nations as Russia, as France is doing.

Maybe we can't make France pay those $6.5 billion but, if we can't, neither can France make us give our gold in exchange for its dollar holdings.

France, under President de Gaulle, has become a troublemaker in the north Atlantic Alliance. It is a stumbling block to the inclusion of Britain in the European Common Market. France is upsetting the American balance of payments by threats to demand gold in return for millions in holdings of United States dollars.

France is 16 million dollars in arrears on its United Nations assessments, and with the Soviet Union is responsible for pushing the United Nations to the brink of a financial precipice.

We consider this no calamity but it shows France and Russia do not honor their obligations.

It is not surprising that the French debt to America, as a result of World War I loans, should be revived as a sore point. It has been a touchy matter for decades, except when self-preservation forced the United States to delay its demands for repayment.

The French, in 1929, were given 53 years to pay for the munitions, foodstuffs and services received from America during the First World War. When the depression struck, Germany was unable to pay reparations to France, and France was unable to pay the United States. President Herbert Hoover granted a one-year moratorium on war debts in 1931.

One year ended in July, 1932, but nothing happened.

By the late part of the early 1940s we were helping Europe again. After 1945 there were the Marshall Plan, the United Nations, and our advocacy of the Common Market. Supposedly the Common Market would save the economy of Europe in contrast to the economic chaos that followed World War I. Such has been the case. But France has continued to ignore its debts from that earlier war, and has begun to stir political, military and economic difficulties for its creditor nation, the United States.

Senator Fulbright has spoken before of the need to replace "old myths" with "new realities." In urging that the United States put pressure on France for repayment of World War I debts, he is acting on that premise. A friend may excuse repayment of a debt when an ally is in trouble and the two are struggling together. But when the debtor is on his feet again, his debt remains.

The United States has never canceled French indebtedness. We may not find collecting easy, but we have a right to demand repayment. By so doing, the United States Government can well remind the French — who seem to be summed up in the individual personality of Charles de Gaulle — that the glorious past of France includes an honest and moral war debt. We should send a forcefully stated bill.

Louisiana Milestone

Some phases of government assistance are fairly well removed from politics and make little, if any, encroachment upon the rights of individuals and of free enterprise. There is less objection to this type of assistance.

Outstanding in this category are soil and water conservation. Highway construction also falls into this phase of assistance but, at the moment, we are discussing conservation.

Recently, other members of the Louisiana congressional delegation and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman stopped by the office of Louisiana Senator Allen Ellender for the signing of documents stating that all of Louisiana's 26 soil and water conservation districts had entered into new and expanded "working agreements" with the department of agriculture. Louisiana is now one of only six states which have achieved full participation under the new and modernized program.

The new agreements mean that all of our conservation districts will be eligible for additional and expanded forms of assistance in the conservation and development of our soil, water, wildlife and other resources. The assistance becoming available will include credit, cost-sharing and various forms of technical help.

Many state and local leaders of our soil and water conservation efforts work without pay and at a personal sacrifice, not for themselves but for the benefit of generations yet to come. They deserve our commendation. The whole program of advancement along these lines is gratifying.

Gemini's Chief Foes

Chief foes of United States efforts to conquer space — aside from the problems of space itself — are union labor bosses, communists and the United States Supreme Court.

Early on August 9, Gemini 5 will blast off for a space rendezvous with destiny — the coupling of two satellites in black nothingness — if the combined efforts of the union bosses, communists and the Supreme Court don't prevent it.

The Supreme Court, against the best interests of the United States, has held that communist-dominated unions, including those which seek the destruction of the United States government, are entitled to the same protection as legitimate unions, although Congress has previously and explicitly denied, by legislative enactment, that such a privilege should exist.

If there are no intra-mural strikes, union feuds or other major stoppages at Cape Kennedy and Merritt Island Moonport the Gemini rendezvous will take place. If such stoppages do take place, and if they involve communists we can see no reasonable way to blame the Supreme Court any less than we blame union bosses and communists for such interference.

Democrats Turning On Heat Seeking $1,000,000 At Dinner

THE DEMOCRATIC National Committee is turning on the heat as never before to pull in the $1,000,000 set as the goal for the big fund-raising dinner in the capital next Thursday night.

From the way this high-gear pressure drive apparently is going, its success seems pretty well assured.

Neil Curry, Los Angeles, dinner chairman as well as head of the executive committee of the potent American Trucking Association, is saying privately that already more than $600,000 is in the till.

Leaders of the Senate and House Democratic Campaign Committees, for whom the big fund-raising affair is being staged, have been told by Curry that the goal of selling 10,000 tickets at $100 will definitely be reached by Thursday. If it isn't, it won't be for lack of arm-twisting and prodding.

Those running the dinner are not being squeamish about who is being importuned, nor how it's being done. For example: Some 350 employees of the D. C. Area Redevelopment Agency were given lay-off notices due to the legal expiration of the organization June 30, end of the fiscal year. At the same time a number of them got mailed "invitations" to buy tickets for the $100 dinner. As one official wryly remarked, "The inference is clear. Failure to fork over may mean no job in the new redevelopment program. No one is saying that, but I'm taking no chances. I need the $100, but I also need a job. I'm buying a ticket."

So are a lot of others for the same reason.

Every Democratic senator (68) has been given a quota of 50 tickets — five tables at $5,000. The 295 Democratic House members have been allotted two tables — $2,000.

Members of the $1,000 "President's Club" (some 4,000) have been asked to take five or more tickets.

The same "request" has been made of representatives of the hundreds of business, industry, trade, defense, labor, farm and other organizations with offices in Washington.

THE "MASTER LIST" — Putting the bite on them presents no problem to the Democratic National Committee. It has been doing that in a well-organized manner for years.

A key adjunct is a carefully-compiled alphabetical list of some 800 organizations and their Washington representatives. Known among Democratic insiders as the "master list," it is constantly revised and carefully kept up to date. Consisting of two sets of names — organizations and their representatives — the list is extensively used for fund-raising purposes.

Illustrative of the nature and scope of this "master list" of contributor prospects are the following random samplings:

BUSINESS — American Can Co.; Anaconda Copper Co.; Chrysler Corp.; Columbia Gas; Consolidated Edison of New York; Continental Oil; Goodyear Tire & Rubber; Gulf Oil; Humble Oil; New York Central Railroad; New York Stock Exchange; Pacific Gas & Electric Co.; Pennsylvania Railroad; Procter & Gamble; Radio Corporation of America; Shell Oil; Standard Oil of New Jersey; American Telephone & Telegraph; Tennessee Transmission Gas; Trans World Airlines; American Airlines; United Airlines.

TRADE ASSOCIATIONS — American Bankers; American Medical Assn.; Aerospace Industries; Automobile Dealers; Bicycle Manufacturers; U. S. Brewers; American Cattlemen; U. S. Chamber of Commerce; Cotton Manufacturers Institute; Distilled Spirits Institute; National Electrical Contractors; National Food Brokers; Grain & Feed Dealers; Investment Bankers; Meat Institute; National Assn. of Manufacturers; American Paper & Pulp; American Petroleum Institute; Pharmaceutical Manufacturers; Philippine Sugar; American Pulpwood; American Railroad Executives; Rivers & Harbors Congress; Savings & Loan League; National Shoe Manufacturers; American Truckers; Wool Growers.

LABOR UNIONS — AFL-CIO; United Auto Workers; Building & Construction Trades Dept.; AFL - CIO; Communications Workers; Electrical Workers; Government Employees; Ladies' Garment Workers; Longshoremen; Machinists; United Mine Workers; Postal Clerks; Steel Workers.

Earlier Than We Think In Politics

SHORTLY AFTER the Republican defeat in the 1964 election, a very wise woman friend said, "It's not later than you think, politically — it's earlier than we think."

Her point was well taken. The election wasn't lost because collectivism has already taken over. It was lost, in part, because we haven't yet really got around to discussing the subject. The welfare state has been developing without a serious national debate as to whether we might not do the job better another way.

The principles of the free market, the Constitutional Republic and individual responsibility haven't been rejected. They just haven't been tried or much talked about for the past generation.

As reported this week, I hope to do something about that situation starting now.

With some friends who are as devoted to freedom as I am, we have formed a new educationally oriented group called the Free Society Association.

It is our purpose, with the support of every American who shares our views, that today's best minds should work on the problems of our times to evolve new answers for our times — answers based solidly upon the demands and principles of a free society.

WE SAY, VERY simply, that men can prosper in mind and body to a far greater degree by living their own lives than they can under any forms of bureaucratic statism. We maintain that man's life, his ambitions and rewards belong to him and not the state.

We firmly intend to prove through FSA research, programs and publications that these principles provide an answer for every problem facing us.

This new group, to which I call every one who has shared the long battle for the free society, is not in any way the formation of a new political party or even a political action group. As my friend said, "It's earlier than we think," and we have a basic job of education and thinking to do before we even get to the ballot box.

FSA also is formed out of the tens of thousands of letters received since the election. The one question virtually each had in common was "what do we do now?"

These people know that the ordinary political party machinery isn't set up to do the job that must be done — the patient, long-haul, scholarly job of presenting anew the principles of the free society to 190 million men, women and children. Although they live in the freest society of all, they haven't given the matter much thought for years.

THERE IS NO existing group which effectively can do this job. I hope that the Free Society Association will change that.

The formation and announcement of the Free Society Association should give the nation one vital and significant piece of information. If all who believe in the free society will stand up and be counted by supporting this new effort, it should show that the colossus of collectivism has not completely crushed out individualism in this country, as the pollsters and pundits have lately been saying.

The free society is not obsolete. Free man is not obsolete. Neither are their ideas. The Free Society Association is established to do nothing less than prove this.

I'll have more comments on the background of the idea in my next column.

Are Debts In U. S. Dangerously High?

SYLVIA PORTER

AT A RECENT panel discussion of top - ranking officers of 12 of America's largest banks a secret vote was taken on the quality of loans being extended today.

The first question was: "Have present economic conditions resulted in a deterioration of the quality of credit?" The second question was: "Has this happened in your shop?"

On the first question 11 answered yes; one, no.

On the second question 11 answered no; one, yes.

It's a true story with an ironic "bite" which I think reaches to the core of the growing debate on the size and quality of private debts in the U. S. today. In the astounding difference between what the bankers believe is happening to credit generally and what they think is happening in their own shops, I submit you can read this vital point:

Even our leading experts do not know whether or not they are correct when they warn we are climbing dangerously high on the private debt scale.

THEY LOOK at the astronomical dollar totals and guess that countless thousands must be going overboard; then they look at their own records and conclude that their own borrowers are fine risks and their own lending practices are prudent.

There is no disputing that as our private debts have skyrocketed year after year, there has been some relaxation in lending standards and deterioration in the quality of credit. There is no denying that some families in income brackets ranging from the lowest to the highest are over their financial heads.

There is absolutely no doubt that if our economy were to hiccup badly — much less cough — the resulting upsurge in joblessness and business failures would turn many now seemingly sound loans into bad debts. This is the background which compels Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin to declare that among the "disquieting similarities" between pre - 1929 and today is that "Then, as now, there was a large increase in private domestic debt; in fact, the expansion in consumer debt arising out of both residential mortgages and installment purchases has recently been much faster than in the twenties."

BUT, for each disquieting comment, I can give you a reassuring one — and the key to this report lies in that one word, "but."

REPAYMENTS on consumer installment loans are now taking 14 cents of each average after-tax dollar, well above what we once thought was a "ceiling." BUT there is no sign this 14 cents is straining the ability or willingness of consumers to add to their debts.

Installment debts have jumped 40 per cent since the start of 1961. BUT savings are at an all-time peak too, consumer financial assets in aggregate far exceed consumer financial debts, and it has become commonplace for a family to add to its personal debts while simultaneously adding to its cash savings.

The delinquency rate on consumer installment credit accounts is now at 1.58 per cent. BUT this is close to a practical minimum and the Federal Reserve Board itself reports that less than 1 per cent of cars is being financed on terms going beyond 36 months.

The foreclosure rate was 4.59 per 1,000 mortgages in 1964, up from 2.34 in 1959. BUT this is still admittedly insignificant.

Martin is performing a public service in warning against complacency, for smugness can be a prelude to disaster. "Moreover, your big 'but' is people and people are good people," said William W. McCarthy, secretary of the Installment Credit Committee of the American Bankers Assn. "All our records over the years underscore that people manage their finances remarkably well."

McCarthy chuckled: "I bet the one banker who said quality in his shop had deteriorated had brought in a bad loan!"

Parish Courthouse Expansion Favored

Ouachita Parish Police Jury committee Monday will recommend a $1.7 million expansion and improvement of the Ouachita courthouse.

Courthouse Committee Chairman Robert Downing of ward 10 said Friday he will offer the group's report at a jury meeting Monday night.

The recommendation, the result of several months of study and consultation with parish officers domiciled at the courthouse, will call for three-story, 40-foot extensions at each end of the building.

Preliminary plans have been drafted by local architect H. H. Land Jr.

Cost of the expansion, plus major internal improvements to existing facilities, would be financed through a bond issue. The committee will seek jury backing for a bond election.

Newest addition to the plan, Downing said, is an approximately $200,000 expansion of the parish jail, suggested by Sheriff Bailey Grant. The jail, which sits atop the three-story courthouse, would be extended at each end, and brought flush to each end of the building, forming in effect a fourth-story. "We've considered many approaches to solving the growing problem of cramped and overcrowded quarters in the courthouse," explained Downing. "This plan, for additions at each end of the present building, seemed by far the best and offers the most, we think, per dollar expended."

"We want to build now for a long time into the future also," he added. "There's no need in a piecemeal, stop-gap program which will cost more in the long run, when the need for space is growing by leaps and bounds every day."

Considered and abandoned by the group were proposals for the purchase of a nearby medical clinic and the dispersal of operations, as well as the purchase of church property nearby.

Parolee Sentenced

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Percy Joseph Martin, 35-year-old Wisconsin Negro parolee, drew 20 years in the Louisiana prison Friday for armed robbery.

Dist. Judge Fred S. LeBlanc sentenced Martin, of Welcome, La., after Martin pleaded guilty in district court to a charge of armed robbery in the holdup of a local furniture dealer.

Martin was accused in the $70 armed robbery Tuesday of H. L. Brown, co-owner of the Crescent Furniture Co. here.

Officers arrested Martin minutes after he pistol-whipped Brown and took his wallet.

WASHINGTON SQUARE Shopping Center plans were announced Friday by owners and developers, Jack L. Smith, Jamar W. Adcock and William Boles, all of Monroe. The new edifice, first of its kind for Bastrop, will cost $1 million and will be located three blocks north of the courthouse on North Washington Street. Shown above is how the center is to look upon completion. It will consist of more than 60,000 square feet of floor space and have paved parking facilities for 320 cars. National firms that have already signed leases for space include Safeway Stores, Shainberg's Department Store and TG&Y Variety Stores. Negotiations are presently underway to obtain a jewelry store, auto supply store and an exclusive ladies' ready-to-wear shop.

St. Helena Must Speed Up Mixing By Court Orders

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Dist. Judge E. Gordon West ordered St. Helena Parish Friday to step up desegregation of public schools.

West's ruling followed a pattern set in a recent Circuit Court of Appeals ruling in the Lockett case. This case had freedom of choice provisions.

Under an earlier ruling, St. Helena was scheduled to desegregate the 11th and 12th grades.

West's ruling Friday called for desegregation this fall of the 1st, 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th grades this fall.

The government had sought complete desegregation of St. Helena schools by 1967, claiming St. Helena school officials had failed to comply with a 1964 court order.

The 1964 ruling set a timetable for two grades to desegregate each year. The first and 2nd grades were to be the last to desegregate.

Sleepy Captain Invents Revenge For Noisy Dogs

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A merchant marine captain who says his sleep is shattered by barking dogs has used his nautical ingenuity to blast back.

Cyrus Tucker, 54, rigged a line from his bed to his auto horn. When he hears a yipe, he yanks. The tool, he says, drowns out the dogs.

Naturally, neighborhood horns have dubbed him "Captain Horn-blower."

"This is the only defense I've got," Tucker told a newsmen. "Any time a cat moves out there in the alley they give her what for. Police tell me there's nothing they can do. My neighbors feel I'm doing it for the neighborhood."

Not all the neighbors, Gerhard Classen, who lives across the alley and owns dogs, is approximately as enchanted with tools as Tucker is with yelps.

He complained to police about the horn. Last Monday, he said, he was disturbed by five short and one long blasts.

Classen told a newsmen: "Those dogs never bark unless someone teases them."

Police Lt. Ernest Laurin said: "Every time we've investigated Tucker's barking dog complaint we've found nothing."

Tucker says: "By the time the police get here the dogs have quieted down and so have I. I'm kind of ashamed that I had to stoop to this level to retaliate. But this has been a sore problem with me for about two years."

Of the horn, he adds: "It's a burglar alarm. The dogs have been stealing sleep from me. The horn quiets them down for three or four hours, or even the rest of the night."

Classen, asked if the dogs barked before the horn blew, said: "I expect to take this thing to court. I don't want to comment until we get into the courtroom."

Police say they still are investigating the case of the captain vs. the canines.

Mr. Editor...

Tell Me, Please

If you have a question you want answered, write or call "Mr. Editor, tell Me, Please" at the News-Star and Morning World. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it on to you in this column.

Will the LSU - Old Miss game be afternoon or evening this year? Will it be televised?
The game will be played at Jackson, Miss., Oct. 30 at 2 p.m. It will be televised.

I have a recipe that calls for dry sauterne. I haven't been able to find this ingredient. Where can it be purchased?
Try a liquor store. Sauterne is wine.

At what age can a boy or man be married with or without parental consent in any state?

We suppose you mean the youngest age at which a boy can be married. If so, New Hampshire has the youngest age limit. In that state a boy can be married at 14 with his parents' consent and consent of the court. The youngest a boy can be married in the United States without consent is 18. Four states have set this as the low limit. They are Idaho, Michigan, North Carolina and South Carolina.

I would like to know if the Monroe City School Board would accept gifts such as water coolers or air conditioning units for a classroom in memory of someone like the late David C. Silverstein?
Supt. Van D Odom of the Monroe City School system said the school board is happy to accept memorial gifts and will see that they are installed in the particular school requested by the donor.

However, Odom pointed out that the system does not need such items as water coolers or air conditioning units at the present time. Other gifts which may be appropriate would be welcomed.

What is the salary of a practical nurse?
According to James Hice, assistant administrator of St. Francis Hospital, there is no set salary for this position. He recommends that you discuss it with the particular institution in which you're interested since a number of factors determine the salary.

Why doesn't the city fogging machine that sprays for mosquitoes spray along Gerald Street east from South College Avenue?

Arthur Barker, superintendent of the Monroe city sanitation department, said that the machine was supposed to fog every street and that if this street had been omitted, it was a mistake. He added that he would check into the situation.

A friend's children found a pigeon on their farm about seven miles from here (Olla). On one leg were the letters Au 1964 LAF, and on the other leg was a band that had been been wet and couldn't be read. Can you tell me anything about what these letters stand for and where the bird came from?

Cliff Williams with the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission here said that the bird was probably a racing pigeon. The master files for all bird banding are kept at the Fish and Wildlife Service in Maryland. Williams said the local office will send in a report to this agency, and should receive information about the bird in about four or five weeks. He said if you would check with him after that time, he will be able to answer your question.

My question is in reference to a recent item in your paper announcing a National Baton Twirling Association contest with a Miss Majorette pageant to be held in conjunction. The article stated that no twirling would be required in the pageant, that it would just be a strutting and beauty contest. How can a majorette be selected if she doesn't twirl?

To enter the contest you pay for each event. Then if you enter the Miss Majorette pageant, you pay "$2 or get a sponsor" to pay $25 and don't twirl. I have never heard of a Miss Majorette pageant costing over $3 to enter. Is this pageant fair?

Miss Martha Guyton of Monroe, who is officially directing the pageant and contest for the National Baton Twirling Association, said that the $25 pageant entry fee is necessary to meet high overhead costs, since this is the first such event ever held in Monroe.

"About $1,000 will be needed to pay for trophies and awards, the necessary facilities and nationally accredited judges," she said.

"Each contestant must be sponsored by a business establishment or organization who pays the $25 entry fee," she explained. "We hope that these requirements will attract a high quality type of contestants and

Three Charged

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Three Negro men were charged Friday under federal bank robbery statutes in connection with the $4,444 holdup of a New Orleans branch bank Thursday.

A customer, Woodrow Batt, 52, was shot in the shoulder when speeding; and Chester A. Calhoun, 64, of Rt. 1, Box 289-E, the Algiers branch of the National Bank of Commerce.

Volunteers Set, China Says

TOKYO (AP) — Red China said Friday it will send volunteers to Viet Nam if the Viet Cong asks and "if the United States intends to fight to the end, we will support the Vietnamese people in hitting back to the end."

A broadcast of a Foreign Ministry statement declared "the 650-million Chinese people pledge themselves to back the great Vietnamese people to the hilt."

"We have made all preparations," the statement said, "and when we receive the call of the Vietnamese people, we will promptly send our volunteers to Viet Nam to fight shoulder to shoulder with the Vietnamese armed forces and people until the U.S. aggressors are driven out of Viet Nam."

Peking had previously stated that it was ready to intervene in the Viet Nam war. The Standing Committee of the Chinese People's Congress called April 20 on the people to "make full preparations" to enter Viet Nam if the Viet Cong called for help.

The Foreign Ministry's statement said: "The Chinese people have always regarded the struggle of the Vietnamese people as their own struggle and their support for the just cause of the Vietnamese people as their sacred internationalist duty. The Chinese people unconditionally support the Vietnamese people."

"We will support them as long as the United States carries on its war of aggression; if the United States intends to fight to the end, we will support the Vietnamese people in hitting back to the end."

"To the best of our capacity we have provided the Vietnamese people with the assistance they need, and we will go on doing so."

The Chinese did not say what kind of assistance had been extended.

Commenting on the build-up of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, the ministry charged that the United States "has embarked on the road" of fighting a Korean-type war.

It said the United States has "switched from the 'special warfare' in which it supplies money, guns and 'advisers' as the main form of its aggression, to direct participation in the war."

The ministry also called on all countries to assist "the Vietnamese people's just struggle in every possible way, including the dispatch of volunteers in response to the Vietnamese people's call, 'so as to foil the U.S. imperialist aggression in Viet Nam.'"

Peking said the latest Chinese pledge is in response to a statement June 9 by the National Front for Liberation, political organization of the Communist Viet Cong.

"On June 9, the spokesman of the South Viet Nam National Front for Liberation issued a statement in connection with the Johnson administration's order for the direct use of the U.S. aggressor troops in combat operations in South Viet Nam," the statement said.

This was reference to a U.S.

decision to send troops into combat in South Viet Nam if requested by Vietnamese commanders.

"As the United States had taken this step, the South Viet Nam National Front for Liberation acquired the right to call, when necessary, on the troops of North Viet Nam and of friendly countries to volunteer to come to South Viet Nam to fight against U.S. aggression," the statement said.

Dear Abby

If You Can't Change Him Then Just Report Him

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns my husband. He and his friend hunt bobcats with their dogs, and in order to train their dogs to follow the scent, they use house cats to practice on. Three months ago they went to the pound and brought back a cat. She was old and mangy, but I didn't like the idea of their letting the dogs kill her. I argued and fumed, but it didn't do me any good. Yesterday they went to the pound again and brought back two of the month old. They plan to keep them until they are full-grown, train the dogs with them, and then let the dogs have them as a reward. Right now these kittens are in our shed.

Abby, I can't believe my husband could feed them and watch them grow and then let the dogs kill them. He's naturally a very kind person—it's his friend who's bloodthirsty. I have a hunch my husband won't admit it, but he really doesn't want to kill domestic animals this way, but he's afraid his friend might say he's "chicken" if he doesn't go through with it. Have you any suggestions on what I might say or do to save those kittens?

MRS. P.: Don't ask your husband, TELL him that if he uses those kittens, or any other animal in this manner, you will notify your local S.P.C.A. There is nothing to prevent someone from going to a pound and adopting kittens without disclosing his plans, but animals are NEVER given out for this inhumane purpose. If you can't persuade him, report him!

DEAR ABBY: I was glad you advised "One Hat Hattie" to wear a hat in church. But I was surprised that you said, "I'm quite sure that God couldn't care less—as long as she's there." God DOES care as He tells us in the New Testament through His apostle, Paul. I quote I Co-inthians, chapter 2, verse 5:

"But every woman who prayeth or prophesieth with her head uncovered, dishonors her head." Respectfully, R. B.

DEAR ABBY: There are several couples in our neighborhood who get together very often. We go places together or just visit. Our problem is one of the wives. She is undeniably attractive and always seems to dominate the conversation carried on by the men. They direct their remarks to her as though she were the only woman in the room. We other wives just sit there and provide an audience for this woman and all the men. Naturally the men enjoy talking to an attractive, vivacious woman so they don't find her obnoxious, but we women are getting fed up with her. Should we butt into the conversation and talk as much as she does? Or should we leave the room and carry on our own conversation? (We'd never be missed.) Don't suggest that we exclude this woman and her husband from our gatherings. Our husbands would never let us get away with it.

STUCK: The woman whom you resent is more than "attractive and vivacious." She has something worthwhile to say, and she says it well. A plain woman who has something of value to contribute to a conversation is a welcome addition to any company. But she who "butts" in for the sake of diverting attention to herself is woefully obnoxious. Sharpen your minds, girls, and pull in your claws.

DEAR ABBY: I like this boy a lot. We are supposed to be going steady but he hardly ever calls me. He tells me he "loves" me, but you know boys. I see him only on week-ends and it always winds up in a big necking session. I am seriously thinking about dropping him. Any advice?

DULUTH: Yes. Quit "thinking" about it—and drop him.

British Maestro Discovered Dead

LONDON (AP) — George Melachrino, one of the few British big-band maestros to survive in the age of the Beatles, was found dead Friday in his bath. He was 56.

The cause of death was not announced immediately.

Popular in America as well as in Britain, Melachrino's music was a far cry from the twangy product of present day pop groups.

His speciality was the sweet serenade type of music delivered by a 40-piece string orchestra. Melachrino himself could play every instrument in the band except harp and piano.

Born in London of Greek parents, Melachrino started out studying classical chamber music.

He moved over toward popular music with compositions for movies, the stage and radio.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Van Dellen

A PATTERN OF OBESITY

Many obese individuals lose weight when motivated to do so; others are satisfied with the way they are and will not diet for love nor money. Mary was in the latter group — 5 feet 1 inch tall and 6 pounds overweight.

She was 50, happy, stable, and a delightful woman. Her hands and feet were small and most of the excess weight was distributed in her breasts, upper arms, abdomen, hips and thighs. She loved to cook for her family and did her own baking and housework. Mary preferred to eat at home and lovely afternoon visitors, especially girly chums who stayed for an hour, eating bakery goods and drinking coffee.

Mary was not always fat and loved to tell how petite she was when she got married. Weight became a problem when the babies began to come. Her husband is not concerned because she manages the home and family expertly. Does she want to reduce? No. She feels well and is seldom on public display.

On the other hand, reducing could easily be accomplished with a low caloric diet. After all, her primary problem is too much food, especially carbohydrates, and rich, highly-seasoned edibles. This pattern of eating goes along with her way of life. In all probability, she is mimicking the eating habits of her mother, sisters, and friends.

Mary might be motivated to lose weight if she would seek outside interests and activities. But why? More exercise is out of the question because she keeps busy around the house, bending, stooping, scrubbing, and shopping. Furthermore, she prefers a dessert to walking the many miles it would take to burn off the equivalent in energy. We don't blame her, and in all probability it will not shorten her life so long as she maintains a happy disposition.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

BROADWAY BULLETIN BOARD... Now it can be told: the political pundits who were teased by Robert Wagner's "I'll make up my mind in a couple of weeks" statement were not in his confidence. Paul Screvane is His Honor's choice for the Democratic nomination, indeed, the mayor has been grooming him for years. Wagner can have an important cabinet post if he wants it, but he may not want it. Screvane would have found it easy sledding except for two unforeseen factors: (1) the decision of John V. Lindsay to run on the Republican ticket, and (2) the linking of Screvane with the parking meter bribe scandal. Actually, Screvane was totally innocent, as the record shows.

Shirley MacLaine thinks she and Frank Sinatra would make a great combination for the film version of "Funny Girl." No word on where that would leave Barbra Streisand. Or where it would leave the story of the show — as witness what happened with "Irma La Douce."

But Hollywood bankers are primarily fascinated by box office appeal, so don't bet against Shirley's notion... Depressed areas in the United States soon will be favored with public works projects comparable to those of the 1932 era — $700,000,000 will be handed out just for starters.

The international airlines are indebted to LBJ for asking U.S. vacationers not to go abroad, and suggesting that next year the travelers might be taxed $100 apiece for crossing the ocean. To quote one airline executive:

"The minute President Johnson suggested Americans stay home instead of going to Europe, our reservations doubled; when there was a report that a $100 tax would be imposed on those who did travel abroad reservations tripled."

Friends hear Judy Holliday died broke. Five years of illness took her bank account clean... The fast-climbing record, "Frankfurter Sandwiches," bills its artists as "The Streamliners with Joan." There ain't no such animals, really; but to this ear the combination sounds like a spoofing Ted Heath band with Dorothy Squires doing the rinky-dink vocal... Now that the wild Summer season is on, speculators are getting $75 a pair for tickets to "Hello, Dolly!" and "Fiddler on the Roof."

$60 a pair for "The Odd Couple" and $45 for "Funny Girl." "Fiddler" is a hit manufactured by the critics; it isn't worth all that much unless you care about the tribulations of an old man trying to marry off his daughters. The others are entertaining — from "very" to "vastly" — The Broadway reaction to Sybil Burton's marriage to a very young fellow:

Afro-Asian Bloc Thwarting Wilson Peace Plan

LONDON (AP) — Opposition from Asian and African colleagues of Prime Minister Harold Wilson pushed the British Commonwealth plan for a Viet Nam peace mission to the brink of collapse Friday night.

The first semi-official reaction from the Communist sphere criticized the plan, conceived by Wilson, as a foggy idea. This was the view of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia.

The big trouble, however, was at the conference of the prime ministers of the 21-nation Commonwealth in London.

Wilson said he intended to go ahead. But rumblings of discontent came from Tanzania, Kenya, Ghana, Ceylon and, in a lower key, from India and Pakistan.

President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania dissociated his East African nation from the plan to send Wilson and four other prime ministers to Peking, Hanoi, Saigon, Moscow and Washington.

Nyerere, host last week to Premier Chou En-lai of Red China at Dar es Salaam, said in an interview: "I believe quite frankly the plan is designed to put China in the dock. The Commonwealth should not appear to be backing up Wilson or the United States on this issue."

Nyerere said in a statement just before a session of the prime ministers that he believed careful diplomatic soundings should be taken before the idea of visiting capitals is pursued.

"If Hanoi refuses to see the Commonwealth committee the whole thing will be completely useless, a blow to the Commonwealth," he said.

The chief of Kenya's delegation, Foreign Minister Joseph Murumbi, said he supported the mission, but did not want Wilson to be a part of it. He declared the peace initiative must be completely nonaligned and Britain is too deeply committed to the United States to join.

President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana called for an end to American air strikes, withdrawal of Australian infantrymen from Viet Nam and cancellation

CLEAN CONCRETE

To treat a concrete floor which has become "powdery," wash it with hot soap or detergent suds. Then apply boiled linseed oil (from a hardware store) liberally with a paint brush. Repeat this process after a few days. If the floor is very worn, a third application may be necessary a few days later.

Correct too much soda in a recipe. Add a little vinegar.

Also attending were Mrs. William G. Avery, Miss Sandy Couvillion, Mrs. James O. Lang and Mrs. Harry W. Barber Jr. all of Baton Rouge.

MR. AND MRS. JERRY BEN WILBANKS

DeRidder Girl Is Bride Of Jerry Ben Wilbanks

In a double ring ceremony at the First Baptist church in DeRidder, Miss Mary Jane Stark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul N. Stark of DeRidder, became the bride of Jerry Ben Wilbanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wilbanks of West Monroe.

Rev. Emory Wallace performed the ceremony against a background of greenery with pyramids of white candles, centered with a prie dieu. Flanking the altar were arrangements of white gladioli and Fuji chrysanthemums.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Luther Brown, organist and Charles Faust, uncle of the bride, as soloist. Candles were lighted by Misses Wanda Cole and Carolyn Swearingin, who wore mint green peau de soie frocks with wristlets of yellow roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pale ivory silk mist taffeta and pearl-embroidered Alencon lace. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline and the full skirt, terminated in a chapel train. Her triple tiered veil of illusion was attached to a queen's crown of jeweled lace. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white orchid. A single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, was her only jewelry.

Mrs. Jimmy Shirley, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Dana Russell and Norma Lee Herrington. They wore empire style gowns of mint green peau de soie and carried bouquets of yellow roses.

Johnny Wilbanks of Monroe, was best man for his brother and serving as groomsmen were Buddy Wilbanks, also his brother, and Jimmy Shirley of DeRidder. Ushers were Jerry Colquette and Jerry Hawkins of DeRidder; Carol Whittington and Joe Kelley of Monroe.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social rooms where the bridal motif was repeated with arrangements of gladioli and Fuji chrysanthemums.

Receiving guests, Mrs. Stark, mother of the bride, was wearing a mauve lace dress with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. The groom's mother, Mrs. Wilbanks, wore a dress of blue silk with blue accessories and an orchid corsage.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Carolyn Shirley. Jon Herrington and Gary LaCaze distributed rice bags to the guests.

The bride's table was centered with yellow roses flanked by white tapers in crystal holders. Mrs. Odis Reed of New Orleans and Mrs. Raymond Kron of Baton Rouge, aunts of the bride, served the cake and presiding

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Wayne M. Grubbs, wearing a gown of white chantilly lace styled with a basque bodice, long tapering sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Hints From Heloise

Fit Food To Freezer
Storing Much More

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Gals:

Some days we run across something that is so simple and wonder why in this wide, wide world we never thought about it before.

Yesterday, I was washing an empty plastic bottle and wondered, "Now what in the world am I washing this for when I already have about 10 for testing and experimental purposes?"

But this little bottle was a nice square, plastic rubbing alcohol bottle.

I set it on the drain board. Then like a bolt of lightning . . . it struck! I had some leftover spaghetti sauce on the stove.

I just whacked off the top of that bottle with a sharp knife, and lo and behold, had the cutest, nicest container you ever saw for my freezer.

Too, since it cost me nothing, I picked up me felt marker and just marked "spaghet" on the outside.

I covered the top with some plastic wrap then put a rubber band around it, and it's a dilly.

One thing about this is that you can take your scissors or a knife and whack away until that bottle EXACTLY fits the contents which you want to put it in.

Thus: NO space wasted in your freezer.

Want to know something else? When you get ready to use the contents, just turn your beautiful plastic bottle upside down under the hot water faucet for a few minutes, pick it up, remove the plastic and rubber band and the contents slide out slick as can be.

Oh, I just love free things! Don't you all?

So . . . save those plastic containers. They can be washed, rinsed with vinegar and water solution then scalded for health's sake, and for goodness sake, they sure save on our budgets. What price living? No amount of gold could buy it.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

To store buttons, I string them on pipe cleaners instead of thread.

After placing the buttons on the pipe cleaner, I just fold over the ends and the buttons are secure until I need them. These are easily opened and twisted again whenever you want to remove or replace a button.

Mary W. Delafield

Dear Heloise:

For all those busy, busy, sometimes weary mothers, like myself . . .

If you always clean your rooms in a certain order, do it the other way around.

The same applies to any work you do.

Do it differently, and see how fast the work seems to get done. You'll be surprised.

Every time you feel bogged down, change your routine.

This has worked wonders for me.

Dianne Hoffman

I concur. Bless you!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I found that my son's slacks were very bulky, and too thick to hang with clothespins after washing.

I took trouser hangers (wooden ones that clamp together) folded the slacks with the in-seams together and clamped them together at the cuffs . . . just as if I were hanging them in the closet.

I then hang them by the hanger hook on the line 'til they are dry, put them on the bed, smooth them with my hands, and they are ready to put away. They look as if they had been pressed!

Reader

Dear Heloise:

To clean rust off my linoleum, I use soap-filled pads. I just wet the pad and scrub until the rust comes off.

It has not damaged my linoleum.

Mrs. J. H. H.

Jackson Protesters
Continue Picketing

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The King-size city police force quickly countered hit-and-run picketing Friday in five places, arresting 78 demonstrators and sending the week's total to 833.

The latest arrests came at the old capitol museum when city police packed off 33 persons in paddy wagons after they walked along the sidewalk a full block singing, "We Shall Overcome."

Just before, 25 others were arrested at the Robert E. Lee Hotel, a private club since the 1964 Civil Rights Act took effect. The pickets marched there because the House caucus had been held inside this week during a special session under protest by the demonstrators.

Both groups were charged with parading without a permit. Demonstrations at the old capitol museum, at the head of Jackson's main thoroughfare, the governor's mansion and the state capitol were aimed at testing new laws passed by the session this week outlawing unauthorized demonstrations at those points.

However, city police made the old capitol and capitol arrests as demonstrators did not reach state property. Highway patrol officers stood ready, but took no part.

Pickets were arrested in two groups at the capitol and in another at the governor's mansion. The patrol arrested those at the mansion and turned them over to city police.

One group at the capitol carried signs reading, "Mississippi Needs Federal Registrars" and "Unjust Men Cannot Make Just Laws."

Demonstrators had advertised Friday as the big day of demonstrations, in their fifth straight day, and promised to use every stratagem to put demonstrators across the town in force.

The city's nearly 400-man police force, however, outnumbered them.

The special session the capitol pickets were also protesting adjourned Thursday for the weekend.

Six pickets were arrested on the mansion steps in the heart of downtown Jackson. They included Dr. Jean Finer of London, England, southern division head of the Medical Committee for Human Rights, and two preschool Negro children carrying American flags.

Fourteen others were arrested near the Capitol in protests against the special session working on voting requirements revision. The Freedom Democratic Party contends the legislature is illegal because of low Negro voter registration, and that the session was called to circumvent federal registrars under the pending voting rights bill.

Plans Made
For Fair By Lamkin HDC

The home of Mrs. S. J. Taylor was the setting for the Monday, June 14, meeting of the Lamkin Home Demonstration Club with Mrs. Robert C. Tate presiding.

A report was given on citizenship and civil defense and each member was presented a copy of the traffic laws of Monroe and West Monroe. A consumer education report was made by Mrs. James Monroe. A demonstration on the use of dairy products was conducted by the nutrition leader, Mrs. W. A. Roche.

In reference to the coming fair and picnic in August, plans were made for the construction of the club's booth.

Following the business session a social hour was enjoyed by the members with Mrs. J. W. Braswell winning the door prize.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Braswell, Mrs. R. E. Brookings, Mrs. S. C. Mathews, Mrs. Monroe, Mrs. Patrick McHenry, Mrs. J. N. Powell, Mrs. Roche, Mrs. Leslie Semmes, Mrs. H. J. Strain, Mrs. P. J. Bonin, Mrs. Tate and Mrs. Taylor.

U.S. Jaycees
Will Consider
Changing Name

Delegates to the annual national convention of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce next week will consider the possibility of changing the organization's name to United States Jaycees.

The group will meet in Buffalo, N. Y., June 21-24. The purpose of the name change is because people confuse the junior chamber organization with the Senior Chamber of Commerce.

Although the Junior Chamber of Commerce is not officially associated with any other organization, it does work closely in a number of communities with the senior chamber.

Monroe delegates to the convention will be president Otis Derbonne, vice president Hugh Hyman Jr., past state vice president Tom Hassion and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mulhearn.

Approximately 10,000 Jaycees are expected to attend the meeting which will be climaxed by a six-man race for national president.

SAFE AT HOME

Play it safe in the kitchen, advises the Greater New York Safety Council.

Directions: Always cut away from the body and use a cutting board; keep fingers out of the electric mixer and use a rubber or flexible plastic spatula to scrape the bowl; don't poke a metal fork into a toaster, broiler or such while it is on.

Hungary's Leader
Decries 'Illusions'

EDITOR'S NOTE — Premier Janos Kadar of Hungary granted one of his rare interviews to Associated Press writer Preston Grover in Budapest. Here is Grover's report.

By PRESTON GROVER

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Premier Janos Kadar said in an interview Friday the Vietnamese conflict is slowing down improvement in East-West relations.

"The cause of peace is one and indivisible," he asserted. "It is illusory and inconceivable that while, for instance, in the area of Viet Nam or anywhere else in the world the situation is exacerbated and aggression is carried on, and there is interference in internal affairs of other countries, in another area of the world peaceful coexistence should continue to develop nicely. This is a naive and dangerous illusion."

He called it impossible to consider "the guarantees given by the United States government to a practically unnameable South Viet Nam government at the same time one considers the main line of development to ward a world war or toward peaceful coexistence." He said the problem of Viet Nam posed one or the other of these possibilities.

Asked what impact he thought continuation of U. S. policies in Viet Nam might have on East-West relations, he replied: "I am no prophet. So I cannot say what is going to happen. I can only give voice to my opinion that this is already impeding, curbing and slowing down the normal and many-sided relationship and cooperation between countries of different social systems."

During the talk he also discussed the question of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, now in his ninth year as a political refugee in the American legation here. He said a solution of this problem is possible, but declined to give details, simply urging patience.

It was on the Indochina question that the premier chose to open the interview. There was no evidence of strain or tension in his discussion. At one point he talked rather teasingly about American prestige in the Viet Nam conflict.

Kadar said the Hungarian government had discussed the Viet Nam question at length and added he felt that the American position was invalid on virtually all fronts. He accused the Americans of disregarding the 1954 agreements, of waging aggressive war against North Viet Nam, and of interfering in the affairs of South Viet Nam.

Asked whether he had studied the proposals made by President Johnson for ending the conflict, he insisted there was only one basis for a settlement, and that was for the United States to respect the Geneva agreements of 1954. These agreements divided up Indochina after the French defeat there and included guarantees of neutrality and proposals for elections.

Johnson Praises
Representatives Of Youth Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson greeted the first, the 10,000th and the 100,000th enrollees in the Neighborhood Youth Corps Friday and told them they are symbols of the corps success.

Johnson introduced by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz as "the architect of opportunity," said the purpose of the youth corps is to "enable young people to be contributors to society instead of burdens."

The corps, part of the anti-poverty program, is designed to train school dropouts for useful occupations.

Johnson reviewed recent economic statistics particularly those dealing with employment, and said they "cloud the fact that all Americans do not share" in the record employment.

He noted that the unemployment rate among young people is 14.5 per cent, about three times the national average, and that the rate among Negroes is six times that among whites.

Johnson said he is asking governors and leaders of industry "to see what can be done to correct this 14.5 per cent unemployment."

Robert Martinez, 19, of Wilmington, Calif., became the 100,000th enrollee on June 15. He dropped out of school in 1964 after completing 11th grade.

Two Interstate
Projects Here
Almost Finished

Two remaining Interstate 20 construction projects are almost complete, according to James W. Moore, vice chairman of the State Highway Board.

In noting progress on local projects Moore said that the Catalpa Street - Texas Avenue section will be completed July 7. The steel is being painted now.

Set for completion in August is the Milhaven Road. Workers are currently resurfacing the road with a one and one-half inch course of asphaltic concrete.

Culvert pipe is being laid and special barrow being hauled on the U. S. 165 bypass and the Bawcomville - Eros Road in West Monroe. The latter job should be finished in October.

On the long overdue Stella Street interchange approaches, crews are putting up forms for paving intersections and removing subgrade and should be finished in December.

New GOP Officer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Tom Van Sickle, 27, Fort Scott, Kan., was elected chairman Friday of the 400,000-member Young Republican organization. He defeated David Flaherty, Lenoir, N.C., 308-238.

Both campaigned for Barry Goldwater in the presidential race last year.

Johnson To Delay Inking Excise Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Friday he will wait until Monday to sign the excise tax repeal bill so merchants will have time to take inventories on items which will be affected the next day.

"The benefits of this measure will begin flowing to consumers, producers and retailers on Tuesday," Johnson said in a statement welcoming congressional approval Thursday of the legislation he requested.

The $4.6-billion-a-year repeal on the day after the President signs it will wipe out the levies ranging from a few cents to hundreds of dollars on a long list of products.

"I believe producers and retailers will match the responsible conduct of the Congress with equal responsibility by passing these reductions along to consumers," Johnson said. "This will bring us lower prices, more purchasing power and new jobs."

The President noted again that the nation is enjoying its 52nd straight month of economic expansion and commented: "This is unequalled in peacetime. The reduction in excise taxes will help us to continue to grow."

Some hopes had been expressed that the bill could be signed in time to affect sales this weekend.

Some stores have been striving to keep buyers from holding off on purchases by giving the customers refund chits on some items to be freed of the tax. The stores will refund the amount of

Hewitt Attends Arts Festival In Washington

WASHINGTON (Special) — J. Paul Hewitt of Monroe, Gov. John J. McKeithen's representative for the arts, is very optimistic about the future of the performing arts in Louisiana after his week here.

Hewitt, chairman of the Louisiana Commission on Culture and the Performing Arts, attended the White House Festival of Arts and the combined National Conference of Arts Councils of America and the America Symphony Orchestra League this week.

Hewitt, a former Mississippi music educator and businessman, summed up the White House festival saying "It was quite a thing — you should have been there."

He took part in the four-day arts and symphony conference which he found helpful and enriching. He found it so beneficial he said that when he returns to the state, he wants to call with the governor's approval a state wide meeting "Of all people who are interested in the arts, laymen and professionals alike to generate further enthusiasm and gain greater recognition."

He said that this rebirth of art in the state would stimulate tourism, bring more industry and give the state a national image. This would also absorb some of the leisure time being created by automation, he continued.

Pointing to the bill presently in Congress which would provide $30 million in federal grants and matching funds over the next three years for the arts and humanities on the state and local level, he added that he hopes the Louisiana Legislature would also have such a bill in their next legislature. Several states already have such measures.

The Louisiana Commission on Culture and the Performing Arts was created by executive order of Gov. McKeithen on November 6, 1964.

Combat Division Not Too Distant For Asian Front

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States probably will have what amounts to an Army combat division in South Vietnam within the next few months, sources said Friday.

The buildup of Army ground fighting forces is being accomplished piecemeal.

An infantry brigade of about 3,900 men and a paratrooper brigade of about 3,600 men are due in South Vietnam by late July, the sources said.

They are being drawn from separate divisions in the United States, the first time that the Army's strategic reserve has been tapped to this extent for the Viet Nam war.

Six battalions announced by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as bound for Viet Nam duty are included in the two brigades, it was understood. McNamara refused to disclose their origin.

Sources said they expect a third Army brigade to go to Viet Nam later, along with helicopter units and possibly a division base. Such a base normally includes headquarters, plus service and administrative troops.

The 3,600-man airborne brigade ticketed for Viet Nam will replace the 173rd Airborne Brigade, an independent outfit which has been on duty guarding airfields and patrolling the Robert L. Jackson and F. A. Brown, local garage owners, are attending the national convention of the Independent Garage Owners of America in Cleveland, Ohio.

The delegates will also meet with Cleveland bankers to discuss business management and what a banker looks for when granting a business loan.

countryside hunting for Viet Cong guerrillas.

The 173rd will return to Okinawa where it normally is held as part of the Pacific theater reserve. The brigade is specially trained to rush to crisis spots anywhere in the Asian area.

Lots Cleanup Due

Clearing of vacant lots in West Monroe will begin when the city's newly appointed fire chief, Aubrey Taylor, takes the post July 15, according to Mayor J. Allan Norris.

Mrs. Ada Gruber, chairman of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce beautification committee, has requested city assistance in clearing up "the deplorable condition of vacant lots within our city."

Norris said the fire department traditionally handles the project.
